CIA Says U.S. Interfering In Vietnam's Way of Life

The United States is interfering in another country's way of life, said John Lawry, chairman of the department of Philosophy. He and three other persons represented the Committee for Intelligent Action at the "Conflux" meeting in the Latter-day Saints Institute last night.

The other representatives were Denault Blouin, instructor in English, Frank Sonnenberg and Bob Fulton, both students.

Mr. Lawry said one aim of the CIA is to change the United States' interfering with Vietnam. "This is not a fight for survival", Sonnenberg, said, "North Vietnam's conflict does not involve defending our country"

In order to change the views of the United States government concerning the draft, the CIA is counseling individuals against the draftboard. "Our goals are to oppose the draft and attempt to do what we can in opposition to it," Mr. Lawry said.

He said that there is a regimentation infiltrating the campus and the CIA wants students to control the student life on the University.

War is only one aspect that is wrong in the society in which Americans live, Mr. Lawry said. According to Fulton, the United States can not do away with the draft in three months, but it can do away with war in general or form a volunteer army.

Mr. Blouin said the United States could get out of Vietnam in six months. It could first cease bombing North Vietnam, it could leave the country and it could provide sanctuary in the United States for any Vietnamese who wanted it.

Mr. Lawry said the CIA does not support communism. However the CIA does protest the way the United States got into the Vietnam war and it does not like the way the United States is conducting the war. The conducting of the war is inhumane, he said. The CIA thinks that there was no real reason for the United States to get in the Vietnam war and that U.S. forces should pull out of Vietnam and neutralize the country.
